Note: "Vienna / Berlin: Two Models of Cultural Topography" – This course will look into the competition, as it developed in the 19th century, between aspiring Berlin and venerate Vienna. While Reading Berlin (the famous title of a book of 1996 by Peter Fritzsche) has become a favorite concern of recent urban studies, Berlin's older antipode Vienna, the site of Biedermeier nostalgia, which had captivated the imagination of German-speaking exiles for decades, was already pushed to the sidelines, when Brigitte Hamann's book, Hitler's Vienna (1999), placed fascism in the cultural context of Hitler's beginnings. Taught in German.

Note: "Modern German Morphology and Syntax" – This course aims to provide the American student with a thorough introduction to the structure of the modern German language. Specifically we will examine the fundamental concepts and principles of German word structure (inflectional forms, word formation), syntax (sentence structure, word order), and vocabulary. An advanced knowledge of German (at least German 4 level, or permission of the instructor) is expected. Lectures will be conducted in German or English, as the class prefers. Main reference work: Martin Durrell (2002), Hammer's German grammar and usage. Class materials will be posted on bSpace.

			Note: Dutch 2 will build on the formative language skills, which the student has acquired in Dutch 1. This course will rely on the immersion language technique of the Direct Dutch method, which trains the student's speaking, listening and writing abilities in Dutch through an intuitive method, emulating the language acquisition of young learners when they learn their mother tongue. By the end of Dutch 2, the student will have reviewed all of the basic Dutch grammar and he/she should feel more confident about expressing him/herself in both the spoken and written word.

Note: Designed for upper-level and graduate students, this course explores qualitative management principles and techniques within various kinds of organizations. The goal is to provide students with a sense of what an enterprise is, why it exists, how it is led and governed, how it is organized, and how it is measured. It will explore the nature of organizations, with primary (but not exclusive) focus on corporations, and the management techniques necessary for those organizations to succeed, and for individuals to succeed within them.

Note: "Talking Funny: Language Variation in Spanish and English Literary Texts" – This seminar analyzes language through the literary representation of regional and social varieties of Spanish and English (as in Mark Twain's Adventures of Huckleberry Finn or Guillermo Cabrera Infante's Tres Tristes Tigres) and discusses social and cultural implications of language variation. It is taught in English with readings in both English and Spanish. Grades will be based on required participation in class discussions and a final oral presentation on an individual project. The reader will be available at the Copy Central on 2560 Bancroft Avenue.
