			Note: "The New Humanitarianism" - By "humanitarianism" we mean intervention into problems of living at home and abroad. The new humanitarianism is fundamentally about the management and distribution of threat and care, and the abiding tensions between transnational virtue and situated/national forms of claims and protection. There are 3 sections: humanity & government; transnational systems of virtue; and biological claims about/to citizenship, with a focus on cases from Asia and the Asia-Pacific. This is a Global Poverty and Practice course.&nbsp;nbsp;

			Note: Readings include key texts by major art-writers, art theorists, and art historians, ranging widely and in roughly chronological order from early connoisseurs and iconologists to recent proponents of eco-aesthetics and affect theory. This course touches on art-historical practice in ancient, medieval, modern and contemporary studies, emphasizing the methods and theories developed in the Euro-American tradition of art history, while attentive to critiques and shortcomings of that tradition. Special attention focuses on the institutional and professional formation of art history, which includes consideration of careers for art historians.&nbsp;

			Note: "Etruscan & Roman Painting" - This course will examine the relationship between Roman wall painting and the earlier pictorial traditions of the peoples of ancient Italy, particularly the Etruscans. Material covered will include: Etruscan tomb paintings-funerary banquets, death demons, and underworld imagery; the painted interiors of luxurious Roman houses and villas on the Bay of Naples; illusionistic architecture and walls encrusted in sumptuous colored marble; painted portraits; sacro-idyllic landscapes; and xenia (ancient still life paintings).&nbsp;

05037	P 151	001 LEC	TuTh 930-11A	103 MOFFITT	Art in Late Antiquity	4	ANGELOVA, D	NONE
			Note: "Art in Late Antiquity" - This class examines three centuries (4th to 7th) of profound artistic, religious, historical and cultural transformations that ushered the Mediterranean World into the Middle Ages. It will help you understand how in the dialectic between the classical tradition and Christianity a new culture emerged. Christian art and architecture will be presented as born out of complex historical processes, such as Constantine's religious policy, the Fall of Rome and the founding of Constantinople, the development of Christian theology, the monastic movement, and the creation of a Christian Holy Land.&nbsp;

			Note: "Elizabethan Renaissance: Art, Culture, and Visuality" - This course is about visuality in both texts and objects during England's "renaissance," from the boisterous court of Henry VIII to the beheading of Charles I. It folds in history, rhetoric, architecture, poetry, and theater, grand public pageantry and intimate miniature paintings. This is a Mellon research-based learning course, so there will be no exams; instead, you will do many smaller written assignments (descriptive, analytic, bibliographic) leading up to writing an original 15-20-page research paper that will include the use of primary sources.&nbsp;

			Note: French art and visual culture from the Renaissance to the French Revolution. The class begins with the intricate erotic play of the School of Fontainebleau and ends with the display of ambitious art in a public space. Topics include: classical triumphal processions that included the spectacle of Brazilian tribal warfare, the early modern state's investment in urban renewal in Paris and cultural spectacle at Versailles, the intimate and complex gendered objects and spaces in Rococo interiors (Watteau, Boucher) as well as the public forms of display, political discourse and art criticism associated with the Enlightenment (Chardin, Diderot, David).&nbsp;

			Note: "Visual Activism" - How is activism made visible? How do current social movements utilize visual images? This class interrogates contemporary visual cultures of dissent and protest as they span a range of ideological positions. We will examine recent developments around recent intersections of art and politics, looking closely at performances, photographs, art objects, and graphic interventions. Topics include visual responses to structural racisms, global climate change, state violence, and queer/trans issues.&nbsp;

			Note: "Transnational Avant-gardes" - Course explores the movement of future-oriented art practices, 1900-1968, across the overlapping geopolitical spaces of modernity. Focuses on four paradigms of avant-garde efforts in particular - Futurism, Constructivism, Surrealism, and Socialist Realism - and their formation and reformation by artists and art groups in Russia, the Middle East, North Africa, the North Atlantic, Latin America, India, Japan, China, and elsewhere, and reexamines theories of the avant-garde in light of global transformations.&nbsp;

Note: "Cultural Dynamics of Medieval and Early-Modern Manuscripts" - We will study medieval and early-modern manuscripts as intersections of materiality, aesthetics, politics, and institutionality. This course introduces to fundamentals of codicology, paleography, and manuscript illumination: After a hands-on phase for which we use real manuscripts from Berkeley's Bancroft Library, we discuss seminal critical work on cultural dynamics of manuscripts and explore selected genres such as medieval bibles, books of hours, poetic anthologies, and manuscripts with scientific texts.&nbsp;bsp

Note: "Renaissance Walls and Wall Paintings" - The study of wall painting unites some of the most defining elements of Renaissance artistic practices: Patronage, spirituality, materiality, illusionism, architecture, time, and narrative. We will examine the changes from Medieval traditions, Cimabue, and Giotto to the classical Renaissance examples (Fra Angelico, Ghirlandaio, Gozzoli, Pisanello, Mantegna, the Ferrarese painters, Botticelli, Perugino, Raphael, Michelangelo) and their impact on later re-inventions of walls and wall decoration (Leonardo, Palladio, the Carracci, Correggio, Giulio Romano, Veronese, Rubens, Tiepolo).&nbsp;bsp

Note: "Art and the modern interior" - This course explores the theme of the interior through diverse case studies including Impressionist paintings by Berthe Morisot and Mary Cassatt, James McNeill Whistler's Peacock Room, Siegfried Bing's Maison de l'Art Nouveau, and William Morris's Arts and Crafts homes. We will consider how interiors and their representations contributed to the construction of identity, drawing on feminist and queer theoretical accounts of the politics of interior space. We will discuss art in relation to the literature on the concept of public and private spheres.&nbsp;bsp

We will also consider possibilities opened up by a comparative approach that tests the transferability of analytics developed in both South Asian and black/African cultural studies. Units include: the aesthetics of garbage and urban disorder; the visual culture of the Sidis, an African-descended community in India known for their colorful quilts; Bollywood fan cultures in Africa; and representations of Africans in Indian film and art.&nbsp;bsp

Note: "Art: Take it, Break it, and Fake it" - Introducing cases in a broad chronological and geo-cultural range, this seminar considers art works as they encounter and are shaped, and deformed/displaced by, looting, iconoclasm, vandalism, and forgery. What do these circumstances reveal about what "art" is, what art does, and how viewers respond to art-devotion, adoration, obsession, greed, desire, violence, creative resistance, and justice...? How do we consider such responses historically and contextually, and in relation to particular values, be they visual or political, religions, philosophical, or economic?&nbsp;bsp

In early Korea, Confucian gentlemen rubbed elbows with mountain spirits, monarchs could be simultaneously shamans and Bodhisattvas, and entire industries were devoted to properly providing for deceased ancestors. In this discussion-focused course, we will examine how the distinct and distinctive shamanic, Buddhist, Confucian, and folk traditions of the Korean peninsula came to be and explore the dynamic interaction between them that gave rise to syncretic practices and cosmologies.&nbsp;MWF 2-3P 200 WHEELER Special Topics 4 DAVEY, J 6

Note: Latinas/os have long been the object of intellectual thought: they have been written about, studied & quantified, & quite often in not too flattering of terms. In this course, we will turn Latinas/os from objects of knowledge to subjects of knowledge. Our goal will be to explore how Latinas/os have reflected critically upon & written about their position as Latinas/os within the US. We will trace the history of Latina/o intellectual work that helped shape contemporary Latina/o cultural studies. Our focus is on how Chicanas/os, Puerto Ricans, & other Latinas/os have theorized the history, society, & culture of Latinas/os in the US.&nbsp;sp

Note: "The California Wine Industry: Hands on the Vines" - The California wine industry and the people involved in its production, emphasizing those who do the actual labor, from grape pickers and cellar masters to the vineyard managers and winemakers. The course emphasizes the period since the famous wine tasting competition, which marks the onset of the "boom" in wine consumption in the U.S and takes into account social and cultural trends that impact on the wine industry as well as other key attendant issues: immigrant labor, foreign competition, styles of wine making, and the multiplier effects of the industry. Field trips, and guest.&nbsp;sp

15830	P 100	001 LEC	MWF 9-10A	205 DWINELLE	Republican Prose	4	MOCH, K E	4
Note: An introduction to the reading of Latin prose. While we will devote some of our time in and out of class to a comprehensive grammar review, the main aim of this course is to develop the student's proficiency in reading Republican prose. We will read selections from Cicero's oratorical, philosophical, and epistolary works, as well as excerpts from Varro, Livy, Pliny, and others; in all our readings, we will focus on understanding the Latin grammar, developing an effective and idiomatic translation style, as well as analyzing specific social and literary aspects of the work. There will be some English-to-Latin translation. Also: MCCARTHY, K
15833	P 101	001 LEC	MWF 2-3P	254 DWINELLE	Vergil	4	MCCARTHY, K	6
Note: In this course we will focus on reading in Latin extensive selections from Vergil's Aeneid. Class time will spent mostly reading and discussing the Latin text, though there will also be time for discussion of broader literary and historical issues that contribute to our understanding of the poem. There will be several translation quizzes, some short (2-5 pages) writing assignments, a midterm and a final exam.&nbsp;
15836	P 102	001 LEC	MWF 3-4P	130 DWINELLE	Lyric and Society	4	SAILOR, D	12
Note: In this course we will study some of the lyric poems of two major authors of ancient Rome, Catullus and Horace. At the same time as we work to improve our grasp of the Latin language, we will interpret our poems critically and discuss broader issues relevant to our interpretive work. Poems by Catullus and Horace will be read in the Latin original, not in English translation. The prerequisite is successful completion of Latin 100 or equivalent.&nbsp;

Note: Application for the Climate Change Internship: <https://goo.gl/b8nzYx>. CCN will be given upon acceptance. Make a difference in the environment by connecting local youth with the outdoors! Climate Change Action Interns will educate and support Berkeley High School students through hands on experience at Redwood Regional Park and lead them in creating their own Climate Change Action Projects focused on educating the community. Interns will then work with elementary school children in Berkeley or Richmond to connect with nature and observe the natural world around them by participating in a BioBlitz. Deadline: January 26, 2016, at 5:00 p.m.&nbsp;ns

Note: "Soundscapes" - The working premise of this course claims that sound is not a neutral backdrop to the written word. How do we learn to listen and "tune-in" to the soundscapes embedded in a text or narrative? What is the relationship between listening and knowledge? What are the politics of noise? This course is an introduction to key concepts in sound studies and offers new approaches with which to revisit classic readings in ethnic studies and new works by writers of color. Note: "The Individual in Native American Literature" - This class examines the role of the individual in Native American tribal society as it is depicted in literary works by American Indian writers. We will read memoirs, poetry, short stories, novels, and view films by Native artists with an eye for how they depict the relationship between individualism and tribalism. Writers will include Leslie Marmon Silko, Louise Erdrich, D'Arcy McNickle, and Simon J. Ortiz.&nbsp;

			Note: SATISFIES READING AND COMPOSITION REQUIREMENT; "Fanon's Dense Oneness" - This course will address the concept of nonsense and reason, looking at the ways in which "nonsense" appears in a variety of text forms and investigating what this is meant to accomplish, whether it be satire, entertainment, or even nonsense for its own sake as a rejection of "the norm." We will contrast this with hard reason, both historically and in contemporary contexts, and will rely on art, film, and music, in addition to a variety of written texts, to accomplish this. Also: KUDSZUS, W G
37245	P R5B	002 LEC	MWF 4-5P	206 DWINELLE	Reading and Composition	4	SHELL, S T	NONE	BY CATEGORY
			Note: SATISFIES READING AND COMPOSITION REQUIREMENT; The theme of the course aims to understand lower Germanic mythology as portrayed in various folktales, legends and sagas. For example, the terms elf, dwarf, ettin, tomte, nixe, saint, hulder, and many other Germanic beings are often conflated and consequently misunderstood. Although these beings may share the same name, the functions of these beings are expressed differently in various, relevant geographic Germanic regions. We will explore these issues by researching the Christianization of the Germanic tribes, comparing their folk tales and legends, and analyzing their degree of language contact within the migration period. Also: KUDSZUS, W G

			Note: SATISFIES READING AND COMPOSITION REQUIREMENT; "Imagined Communities" - Community is a term invoked in very different political contexts and discussions. Since the 19th century it has come to signify a more direct and supposedly more significant form of social relationships as compared to the more abstract forms of society or state. Despite its ubiquity it remains a highly problematic or elusive but still very suggestive term. Also: KUDSZUS, W G

			Note: SATISFIES READING AND COMPOSITION REQUIREMENT; "The People, the Masses" - In a modern democracy, we are surrounded by admiring references to the power of the people. Yet even today, when a crowd gathers, the potential for violence and disarray rears its head. In this course, we will examine key moments in the history of the masses by reading and analyzing literary, historical, and philosophical texts spanning the last 2500 years. Our central question will be where "the people" end and "the masses" begin. Also: KUDSZUS, W G

			Note: SATISFIES READING AND COMPOSITION REQUIREMENT; Many people labeled the Europe of the late 19th Century as a society in decline, as one that had become excessively decadent and weak. While this may initially seem like a decisively pessimistic attitude, some contemporary writers thought this period heralded a possibility of new beginnings. Throughout this course, we will consider the relationship between decay and vitality, the tensions between creation and decadence, and the antagonisms between the individual and society as a whole. Also: KUDSZUS, W G
37440	P 39Q	001 LEC	MWF 10-11A	201 WHEELER	Freshman Seminar	3	FELDMAN, K S	TBA
			Note: "Bible stories and literary criticism" - In this 3-unit freshman & sophomore seminar we will study representations of two important biblical figures, namely Job and Moses. Both of these figures can be interpreted in terms of psychological drama, political allegory, ethical treatise, poetic construction, anthropological study, existential parable, and in other fashions. We will incorporate elements of each of these approaches in our analyses.&nbsp;nbsp;nbsp;

37266	P 100	001 LEC	TuTh 1230-2P	35 EVANS	Introduction to Reading Culture	3	BUCHHOLZ, P J	15
Note: This course offers a survey of German cultural history from the 18th century to the present. We will focus, in particular, on how German-language writers have approached issues of social belonging and exclusion in the modern era. Taught in German. Students with native fluency in German are not eligible to enroll. Prerequisite: German 4.&nbsp;nbsp;
37269	P 101	001 LEC	MWF 9-10A	100 WHEELER	Advanced German: Conversation, Composition and Styl...	3	JERNIGAN, H V	NONE
Note: This advanced-level language course will help students to improve and expand on spoken and written language functions utilizing a variety of works from different genres in journalism, broadcasting, literature, fine arts, and the cinema. The final goal is to enable students to participate in the academic discourse, written and spoken, at a linguistic and stylistic level appropriate for an advanced student of German in upper-division courses. Taught in German. Students with native fluency in German are not eligible to enroll. Prerequisite: German 4 or equivalent.&nbsp;nbsp;
37272	P 102A	001 LEC	TuTh 330-5P	B4 DWINELLE	Advanced Language Practice: German Performance	3	EUBA, N	NONE
Note: The analysis, discussion, adaptation and public performance of primarily poetic texts will advance students' language and interpersonal competencies while providing unique access to a significant dimension of German popular culture as well as innovative approaches to reading and interpreting poetry. Students enrolled need to be available for some evening rehearsals and performances between April 25-29, 2016.&nbsp;nbsp;
37275	P 108	001 LEC	MWF 12-1P	215 DWINELLE	Literary Translation	3	JERNIGAN, H V	11
Note: This course provides an introduction to translation theory and its practical application in a variety of German-language literary texts, including poetry, drama, fiction and creative non-fiction. Performing individual and collaborative translations from German to English, students will not only discover and develop their individual voices, but also refine their writing skills. Among other elements, the course will examine cultural equivalence, tone, humor, rhetorical devices, and idiomatic language. Taught in German.&nbsp;nbsp;
37277	P 110	001 LEC	MWF 10-11A	215 DWINELLE	The Literature of the Middle Ages	3	WILLAERT, F H	7
Note: "Women's Mysticism in the Middle Ages" - In the 13th century, Lotharingia, i.e. the region between the rivers Scheldt and Rhine, was the heartland of a major shift in the history of Western mysticism: from men to women, from Latin to the vernacular, from the countryside to the city. This course offers an overview of some of the most important literary works that testify to this evolution.&nbsp;nbsp;
37278	P 131	001 LEC	MW 2-330P	282 DWINELLE	Goethe	3	TANG, C	6
Note: No other writer has shaped the self-understanding of German literature and culture more profoundly and more lastingly than Johan Wolfgang Goethe. This course combines an overview of Goethe's literary production with focused readings of three masterpieces - "Werther," "Faust," and "Elective Affinities." Lecture and discussions in English. Readings in English or German. This course fulfills the requirement of a German-taught course if students read the texts in the original.&nbsp;nbsp;
37281	P 152	001 LEC	TuTh 930-11A	206 WHEELER	Modern Literature	3	KUDSZUS, W G	10
Note: Some of the most influential and thought-provoking 20th century literary texts will be among our readings. In light of these texts, we will explore questions of identity, madness, perception and creativity. Readings in German. Lectures in German and English. Discussions and course work in English and/or German.&nbsp;nbsp;
37284	P 157C	001 LEC	MWF 9-10A	215 DWINELLE	Heidegger and Arendt	4	FELDMAN, K S	4
Note: In this course we will approach the thought of Martin Heidegger and Hannah Arendt by way of their views of history. In Heidegger's very early essays and in his Being and Time, history is tied to the experience of human Dasein in its authenticity. Later on, history comes to be described in terms of the history of being and its epochs. Arendt is on the one hand very influenced by Heidegger's earlier emphasis on how we exist not in solitude but with others; on the other hand she writes about concrete historical-political events. Taught in English.&nbsp;nbsp;

Note: Germany's post-1945 history has been a history of dramatic change from post-war reconstruction to the transitions following the fall of the Berlin wall. Referring to the establishment of the two German States, the Federal Republic of Germany and the German Democratic Republic, we will focus on a comparative reading of West and East German history.&nbsp;nbsp;
37289	P 160K	001 LEC	Th 11-2P	188 DWINELLE	The Weimar Republic: Politics and Culture in German...	4	KAES, A J	13
Note: "Weimar Cinema and the Modern Experience" - The course uses film to explore the relationship between modern culture and politics in the Weimar era, the turbulent period between the end of World War I in 1918 and Hitler's assumption of power in 1933. The course will focus on the new modernist film language that filmmakers such as Fritz Lang, F.W. Murnau, and Leni Riefenstahl developed to make the contradictions of the experience of modernity visible. It is a film language that is still used in science fiction, horror, crime, and propaganda films. All films have English intertitles or subtitles. Also: Tu 5-7P, 188 DWINELLE

These modes of labor exploitation will be analyzed, as well as the legal, policy, and civil society responses to the offences. Forces that promote human trafficking will be investigated, including similarities and differences from one region, industry, or typology to another. We will explore the economic, cultural, historic, religious, and gender-based facets of modern slavery. This course will meet for 8 weeks only. Lecture will run from Jan. 21 through March 10, 201&nbsp;	330 BLUM	Special Topics in Global Poverty and Practice	2	KARA, S	NONE	BY CATEGORY
38330	P 150	001 LEC	M 2-5P Note: "Engineering Social Justice" - This reading-intensive seminar will explore the relationship between engineering, technology, and poverty. Rather than focusing on narrowly construed quantitative measures of the impact of technology upon poverty, it seeks to understand the relationship between poverty experts -- focused on applying technology to solve issues related to poverty and social justice-and their objects -- impoverished, under-served, and socially marginalized people. Students should have a background in poverty alleviation or international development. Students interested in this course should contact the instructor at kadir@berkeley.edu.&nbsp;	B100AB BLUM	Global Poverty and Practice Capstone Course	3	LUCAS, C	NONE	CLASS ENTRY CODE REQ

Note: "Social Challenge Lab" - Learn how to apply entrepreneurial approaches to generate meaningful social change. Industry sponsor, cloud-communications company Twilio, has challenged students to help address international health, development and disaster recovery issues. You will compete in cross-discipline, lean start-up teams. Guided by experienced mentors, you will generate and validate ideas, and build it using rapid iterative methods, to deliver a working, innovative solution to market. The winning team will have the chance to present their solution at competitions, and implement it with real customers. Note: A key cornerstone of any innovation is the ability to protect intellectual property. The U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (PTO) is at the heart of this effort and is responsible for registering new technology inventions. Currently the patent process is a cumbersome, time-consuming and expensive endeavor for entrepreneurs. PTO is challenging Berkeley students to help accelerate their efforts to modernize. Technologies developed at this transitional period have the potential to be disruptive and turn into impactful and successful startup companies. This class will be a focused lab to explore these opportunities and challenges. Also: KEUTZER, K W
41065	P 190A	001 SEM	Tu 3-4P	120 LATIMER	Advanced Topics in Industrial Engineering and Opera...1		SIDHU, I	20
Note: Through lectures, exercises, and games, the course demystifies entrepreneurship with a combination of entrepreneurial mindset and processes that lead to new projects, new companies, and market driven innovations. Content of the course covers opportunity recognition, idea generation, execution, business models, market validation, team building, communication attracting resources, product design, sales, marketing, and funding models all with an objective of creating new projects, new ventures, and impactful innovation. The course prepares students for innovative projects such as in Challenge Lab, Collider Workshop, Venture Lab, and other BMOE courses.&nbsp;nbsp;nbsp;

Note: "The Collider Workshop (Undergraduate Section)" - A Collider Project is specific type of project available to all students from all disciplines. It is the place where students, researchers, investors, entrepreneurs, and industry leaders "collide" to create unexpected outcomes on projects. Outcomes include: valuable skills for emerging industry sectors to innovate on demand, new venture creation, exciting employment opportunities, research-driven commercialization, opportunities for societal impact in society. Undergraduate students may count this experiential project towards the Sutardja Center Undergraduate Certificate.&nbsp;M 4-6P 155 DONNER LAB Advanced Topics in Industrial Engineering and Opera...1-4 LAVIAN, T 17

Note: This course broadly covers patents as a business tool, and the use of intellectual capital for competitive advantage. The course will cover protecting and commercializing engineering and scientific intellectual assets, as well as examine several patent litigation case studies with a focus on invention, innovation, and patent strategy. Students will learn, first hand, the technological and marketing challenges that make mobile applications difficult to commercialize and how to overcome them.&nbsp;F 2-5P 150 GSPP Technology Entrepreneurship 3 ZAFAR, N NONE

Note: This course, designed for upper-level undergraduates and graduate students, is about creating an entrepreneurial mindset. This experiential learning course introduces key entrepreneurial concepts relevant to the high-technology world and how to take ideas to real products and start companies. The course uses a mix of case discussion, lectures, guest speakers, mentorship, and a team-based venture. Topics include the startup process, customer discovery, market research, funding strategies, and startup finance. Enrollment is by instructor approval, and will be processed based on your Statement of Interest: <http://bit.ly/ieor191-sp16>.&nbsp;

Note: UC Berkeley's Sutardja Center for Entrepreneurship hosts the annual Berkeley Method of Entrepreneurship Bootcamp (BMoE), a 4-day interactive venture workshop on January 11-14, 2016 (a week before general classes start). BMoE focuses on teaching new venture creation and developing an entrepreneurial mind-set. Participants choose one of two tracks: 1) developing a new venture OR 2) developing entrepreneurial mind-set, and attend sessions that weave together inspiring talks with interactive game-based exercises, along with one-on-one mentoring from S/CET and industry experts. BMoE is a fun way to learn to be an entrepreneur to build your new venture.&nbsp;Tu 5-630P BECHTEL AUD A. Richard Newton Lecture Series 1: PF SIDHU, I NONE

			Note: "Research, Analysis and Writing in International Studies" - This course is a practical introduction to the social scientific skills required to complete a project of research or analysis, a guide to the whole process from scoping your topic to writing a report or dissertation. This is not a course on particular methods, such as statistical methods, although it explains how to make good methodological choices. This course is intended to be an introductory but comprehensive guide to research and analysis from start to finish, through all steps of the project, from choosing the topic to delivering the finished written product.&nbsp;

Note: "New Approaches to Crises and Political Transition in the Middle East and North Africa" - Recent crises in the Middle East and North Africa (coups, electoral violence, revolutions and uprisings) are increasingly being addressed in innovative and complex ways. While the point of departure for each country is starkly different, the emerging norm is for complex political transitions. This course examines the mechanics of transition through a comparative approach and scrutinizes the roles of the African Union, the League of Arab Nations, and the United Nations.&nbsp;

Note: "Counter-terrorism and Counter-insurgency" - This course will describe the issues, policies and practices of counter-terrorism and counter-insurgency. Terrorism continues to increase in frequency and lethality. Insurgency too is more frequent and deadly (insurgency now is riskier than terrorism). The actors and methods increasingly overlap, so that terrorism and insurgency practically must be studied together. This course examines the concepts, history, motivations and methods of terrorism and insurgency, and ways in which the counter-terrorist and counter-insurgent side counter those motivations and methods, navigating the legal and ethical bounds.&nbsp;

This course examines the politics and economics of late development in China and India. We will compare the historical contexts that shaped their political systems, as well as the consequences for their paths of late industrialization. We will also explore the role each country is playing in the global economy today. Prior knowledge of China and India are not required for this course.&nbsp;

Note: "Nations and Empires in the Global 20th Century" - This seminar examines the clash and interplay of nations and empires in the 20th century. We begin with a survey of types of empires and nations in world history. Next we will look at all those ways in which nations challenged, questioned, and undermined imperialism from the emergence of the nation-state to decolonization. Finally, we will look more closely at 3 new nation-based ideological empires that took the world by storm in the 20th century ? Nazi Germany, the Soviet Union, and the United States ? to better understand the vexed relationship between nation and empire in our globalized world today.&nbsp;

Note: "Ethnic and Religious Conflict" - Violent ethnic and religious conflict is the defining tragedy of today's world. Religious conflict rages in Africa. Turkey is at war with the Kurds. Sectarian violence has torn a swath through the Middle East. From Scotland to Spain, separatist movements simmer throughout Europe. In Germany, neo-Nazi groups attack Syrian refugee camps, and ethnic and religious tensions are on the rise in asylum shelters. What are the causes of these and other conflicts? How can they be resolved? The seminar will provide an analytic "toolkit" to address these questions and students will research and write on a conflict of their choosing&nbsp;

47803	P 39M	001 SEM	W 10-12P Note: "Hasidim, Mitnagdim, Haskallah - Jewish Society in Eastern Europe" - During the 18th and 19th centuries in Eastern Europe, Jews divided into the primary social groupings of Jewish orthodoxy, the Jewish Enlightenment, and the Hasidim. These groups were often at odds with each other, generating heated controversy and acrimony, and at times joined forces against common enemies. How and why did these groups arise? What were their ideologies, and their tactics of struggle? How did they shape Jewish society today? These are some of the questions we will examine in this class. Note: "Resist, Occupy, Create!" Latin American Social Movements Transforming Society and Politics. Social movement activity in Latin America has exploded over the last three decades. The poor have mobilized in response to neoliberal policies that have made their survival more precarious and highlighted their exclusion from politics, while the middle-class has mobilized in response to pressures experienced as a result of neoliberal policies. We will learn about movements that span the region, approaches to social change and the issues that arise within these movements.&nbsp;

Note: "New Approaches to Crises and Political Transition in the Middle East and North Africa" - Recent crises in the Middle East and North Africa (coups, electoral violence, revolutions and uprisings) are increasingly being addressed in innovative and complex ways. While the point of departure for each country is starkly different, the emerging norm is for complex political transitions. This course examines the mechanics of transition through a comparative approach and scrutinizes the roles of the African Union, the League of Arab Nations, and the United Nations.&nbsp;
57015	P 150	001 SEM	MW 4-530P	102 WURSTER	Advanced Study in the Middle East	4	GOTTREICH, E R	17
Note: "Jews and Muslims" - Jewish-Muslim relations as they developed in the Middle East and North Africa from the rise of Islam to the present day. This course analyzes how ethnic and religious boundaries were drawn and transgressed in historical settings including Muhammad's Arabia, Islamic Spain, the Ottoman Empire, and modern Iran, Iraq, Egypt, Morocco, and Israel. It asks how this shared cultural heritage is remembered and mobilized in the contemporary world, shedding light on the current state of Muslim-Jewish relations in MENA, Europe and the US. Films, memoirs, scripture, and historical works will form the basis of our inquiry.&nbsp;

Note: "Modern North Africa: History, Society, and Culture" - This course will treat the history and society of the Maghrib both as a coherent region and as a facet of larger Arab-Islamic, Mediterranean, and African "civilizations." Some of the themes we will cover include French, Spanish, and Italian colonialism; the Algerian War of Independence; North African Islam; Berber identity and activism; trans-Saharan connections; gender and sexuality; Cold War politics; Maghribi immigration to Europe; Islamist terrorism; and post-independence state/society relations, including the transformative effects of the "Arab Spring."&nbsp;

Note: "Songs and Song-Writing" - Admission to this course is by application. Please email masmart@berkeley.edu by January 11, 2016, with a brief statement (1 or 2 paragraphs) that explains your reasons for being interested in this course and outlines any relevant experience. Decisions about enrollment will be finalized by January 15, 2016. This course will study what makes a great song and students will write their own songs in various genres. Classes will be devoted to listening to and reading about songs from Schubert and Schumann to Bob Dylan and the Beatles. Special guests will visit to talk about song-writing from the inside.&nbsp;nbsp;

Note: Many authors celebrated the Sasanian Dynasty as the "golden age" of Persian art. However, few artifacts can be attributed to Sasanian Persia with certainty while direct written sources are scanty. In the last several years, scholars have found interesting specimens of Sasanian art in Iran and maintain that the production of this period should be critically reconsidered in light of new findings in the field. This course will systematically assess the current findings of the artistic production and archaeology of the Persian Empire during this period.&nbsp;

Note: Learning the written language of the Ottoman Empire opens the door to the history and culture of not just Turkey, but most of the Middle East and the Balkans from the 16th century into the 1920s. Drawing on Arabic and Persian as well as Turkish roots, this incredibly rich language offers countless gems of vocabulary and grammar that delight and challenge. The course begins with an introduction to the Arabic script and simple texts then progresses to more advanced readings, both printed and handwritten. Prerequisite: one year of Modern Turkish.&nbsp;

Note: Is something science if it's not reproducible? How reproducible is the science involving data and computation? This course will equip non-EECS majors to begin a career in science or engineering in which you will be able to [1] create, use, and share structured data; [2] automate repetitive tasks; [3] track and share work over the web; and [4] grow a program in a modular, testable, reusable way. These skills will save you time and help you work more effectively in many future classes and in your career.&nbsp;

Note: "How It's Made" - An introduction to conventional manufacturing techniques of components used in nuclear and other engineering applications. An intro to metal fabrication will be given, and a brief intro to refining, casting, forming, machining and joining. After an overview of the techniques available to engineers, the students will be expected to perform a literature review and discuss how specifically chosen components can be manufactured. Students are encouraged to participate in the campus-offered machine-shop training where basic skills in machining are taught after a short intro by the professor to the shop tools.&nbsp;

Note: In Nuclear Engineering 198 Berkeley students will lead hands-on, interactive science experiments with elementary school students in under-served schools in Oakland every other Wednesday (a total of 7-8 trips) from 1:30-3:00 p.m. (plus travel time). Please account for this when enrolling in this course. This course will expose elementary students in Oakland to careers in STEM fields while simultaneously getting them excited about STEM. This class will also give Berkeley students the opportunity to learn about STEM education techniques for young learners as well as STEM education in different cultural and socioeconomic backgrounds.&nbsp;

Note: "Peace and Security in Contemporary South Asia" - This course will examine the origins of peace and conflict in South Asia. The focus will be on contemporary South Asia, drawing on case studies from India, Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Nepal, and the Maldives. Domestic developments will be covered in detail, and will also be situated in the larger context of international relations and global governance. Regional issues, such as nuclear proliferation and terrorism, will also be addressed, as will other contentious issues such as the status of Kashmir, the spread of identity-based conflicts, and gender-related violence.&nbsp;nbsp;nbsp;

71203	P 24	001 SEM	Tu 10-11A	201 WHEELER	Freshman Seminar Note: "Political Economy in Contemporary Perspective" - This seminar will require students to engage with current events, international and domestic, through the lens of political economy. Those who are enrolled will be required to read The New York Times and/or The Economist each week, identify issues of political economy that are being discussed, and present them to their peers for discussion. Differing perspectives on the news, as well as the different ways in which political economy theorists would interact with the events, will be discussed. Students should expect vigorous engagement and critical thinking.&nbsp;	1: PF	KARRAS, A L	NONE	BY CATEGORY

					Note: "Women and Development in Transitional China"- What is development? How does the process of economic development reshape gender relations? What are its impacts on women? Using post-reform China as an empirical case, this class reviews and revisits the gender critique of development since the 1970s. Major issues include the role of women in production and reproduction, gendered labor and income structure, gendered migration processes, and so on. This class aims to improve students' understanding of both gender theory and China's contemporary gender issues.&nbsp;

					Note: "Revolution and Economic Transformation 1780-1989" - This course explores key revolutions that transformed society, culture and politics on several continents between 1780 and 1989. We will consider the relationship between the unfolding of revolutionary events and ideas about economic development, political power, social structure, governance and grievances that animated revolutionary action. Theoretical frameworks allow us to explore how expanding individual political rights can lead to deeper social divisions, the relationship between capitalism and liberal democracy, and the political logic that animated economic development initiatives after WW II&nbsp;
