					Summer Fees: UC Undergraduate $1,624.00, UC Graduate $2,040.00, Visiting $1,840.00 Note: Astronomy 10 is designed for non-science majors; it has no prerequisite coursework. However, as it does fulfill the physical science requirement, students will be required to perform basic algebraic computations. Simple equations and scientific notation are a part of the course, although not extensively used. More important is learning the way that science works, and some scientific vocabulary. In return you get a full tour of the universe, and learn about the origins and evolution of its contents. nbsp;

Note: "Recent World History through Film" - This course examines the recent history of the world through the lens of popular, critically-acclaimed, and international films. Some of the filmmakers purport to be telling the truth about world history, while others base the films only loosely on historical facts or circumstances. Course objectives are to develop a deeper understanding of recent world history by engaging with and analyzing a range of films. Prior knowledge of world history is not required.

Note: "Media and Global Protest Movements" - This course is concerned with the interplay between political activism and contemporary (mainstream/social) media in international perspective. It places focus on the chain of uprisings in the Arab world, Turkey, Europe, and the United States, and the use of social media as a tool for contention. The course utilizes both lectures and multimedia workshops. Students explore a variety of web-based tools and produce individual and group websites devoted to relevant topics. No prior web experience is required. Enrollment by permission: contact tamy.fakhoury@gmail.com and hkissa@berkeley.edu.

This course examines the many types of borders in the Israeli and Palestinian conflict - geographical, political, psychological, social and economic. Students will gain a broad understanding of the dimensions, divisions and transgressions that political, conflict generates. Using Palestinian and Israeli short-stories, poetry, and film, we will examine how these borders are depicted in various media, how border narratives shape cultural identity and how resistance can be expressed through transgression - narratives of forbidden love, intercultural bonds and other border-crossings. It has been a means of expressing many forms of desire, including erotic passion, platonic yearning, and mystical love for the Divine. This course will explore the development of ghazal from its beginnings in pre-Islamic odes, through the rise of the ghazal as an independent genre, to its adaptations in the classical and modern Arab world. We will investigate how Arabic-language love poets have expressed issues of gender, class, sexuality, existential despair, hope and loss, and living in relationship to God. 			Note: This course seeks to introduce major themes of Islam as they developed from the time of its emergence to the contemporary setting. It will explore the ways in which Muslims have interpreted the message of Islam through philosophical, legal, political, mystical and literary writings. Attention will also be given to the controversies that eclipse present-day Islam. The class will emphasize a seminar-style discussion. Lectures will be supplemented with visual materials, music, and movies where appropriate. This course satisfies Philosophy and Values and Historical Studies breadth requirements. Note: This course will introduce students to various aspects of the religious practices of ancient Mesopotamia (modern-day Iraq) through readings, lectures, discussions, and papers. Since the Mesopotamians had no word for "religion," some of the course topics (ranging from medicine to politics to law) may challenge the student's understanding of what religion is. Cross-listed with Near Eastern Studies C104 section 1.
